

#GIVINGTUESDAY™

November 27, 2018

Season of Giving

You know all about black Friday, and you've probably heard of Cyber Monday, but are you aware of the international Giving Tuesday that takes place the Tuesday after Thanksgiving? The goal was to bring back an atmosphere of giving, after consumerism had become such a significant part of the Thanksgiving holiday. Giving Tuesday gives people a chance to step away from all the great new gadgets they got awesome deals on and remember that generosity is what the season is all about. This year alone over 300 million dollars was raised for organizations in over 150 countries. Although the holiday has passed you can read stories from thousands of people who promoted organizations they believe in at <https://mygivingstory.givingtuesday.org/> and vote for the ones you like best. Voting will decide which organizations win cash gifts.

Project For Awesome

WWW.PROJECTFORAWESOME.COM

Project For Awesome 2018 is only a week away— December 7th-9th. During Project for Awesome, thousands of that help post videos talking about and advocating for charities that they care about and that help make the world a better place. You can kind of think of it like a modern age phone-a-thon but the money is split between 22 organizations and last year alone they raised over 2 million dollars. And all you have to do to be involved is watch and vote for the videos. The top 20 organizations with the most votes will get a portion of the money along with 2 organizations that the founders of Project For Awesome chose before hand. You can also buy cool perks from their Indiegogo campaign and all the money raised from that will go to a non-profit working to make the world a better place. Or you can always post your own video and advocate for a group that you truly believe in, any size organization can win as long as they are registered 501(c)(3). This is a great way to get involved and make a difference in the world without having to spend too much money or time. Take a break from studying for finals to check out projectforawesome.com to watch a few videos and tune into the live stream.
