WHAT IS GREEK LIFE?

Forget the stereotypes — Greek Life at Missouri S&T is a dynamic, welcoming community where students forge lifelong friendships, grow as leaders, and make a real impact on campus and beyond. With more than 20 fraternities and sororities, there's a place for everyone, whether you're looking for a tight-knit group of ten or a bustling chapter of over a hundred. Our chapters are committed to service, academic achievement and personal growth. Many of our organizations are connected to national networks, opening doors to leadership training, scholarships and career connections that last beyond graduation. Most of S&T's Greek organizations have chapter houses where you're surrounded by friends who become family, sharing experiences, traditions and memories you'll cherish for years to come. And the support doesn't end at graduation — Greek alumni stay connected, offering mentorship, advice and professional opportunities to new generations. Whether you're seeking comradery, personal development or career insights, Greek Life at Missouri S&T is your gateway to a college experience that's as rewarding as it is unforgettable.

Greek life at S&T offers something for everyone, with four distinct councils representing diverse communities and values. These governing councils foster communities where students can thrive academically, socially and personally.

Interfraternity Council

The Interfraternity Council (IFC) is the governing body for 16 fraternities at Missouri S&T. Comprised of representatives from each chapter, the IFC supports fraternity success, oversees recruitment, and organizes major Greek events like Greek Week in the fall and Greek Sing in the spring.

Panhellenic Council

The Panhellenic Council (Panhel) governs the three sororities at Missouri S&T. Panhel organizes events to bring the sorority community together, including the primary recruitment process each fall and all-sorority socials. Additionally, they help the other Greek councils with Greek Week in the fall semester and Brighter Lights, Brighter Future in the spring semester.

Greek Independent Council

The Greek Independent Council (GIC) is the governing body for six greek chapters on campus — two sororities and one fraternity, as well as 3 NPHC chapters. Throughout the year, GIC hosts fundraising and philanthropy events, giving members the chance to make a real impact on local organizations.

WHY JOIN GREEK LIFE?

Greek Life at Missouri S&T provides an opportunity for students to grow both personally and professionally throughout their college experience.

Greek Life allows students to grow in their academic skills while giving opportunities to learn professional and soft skills that cannot be learned inside a classroom. Greek organizations cultivate a community in which members choose to get involved across campus and the Rolla community, with a passion to give back through service and philanthropy.

Academics

Our Greek community puts a strong emphasis on academic success. Historically, the all-Greek GPA has matched or exceeded the campus average. Most chapters require weekly study hours, especially for new members, to ensure academics stay a priority. Greek students regularly form study groups, making it easy to find classmates and share advice. Older members are always willing to offer tips on courses, professors and degree programs. The “school comes first” mindset is a big reason why S&T’s Greek alumni go on to succeed after graduation.

Community

Each chapter has its own unique culture, so most students can find a great fit. Members form life-long friendships that last well beyond graduation. Chapters host a variety of brotherhood or sisterhood events, from backyard games to weekend trips. The Greek community also organizes all-Greek programming, giving everyone a chance to connect beyond their own chapter. Greek Life at Missouri S&T is more than just an organization — it’s a true community that helps you build lasting friendships, find support and tap into a vast network of students, staff and alumni!

Housing

Greek housing offers a unique and affordable alternative to dorm living. Missouri S&T’s Greek community features 19 chapter houses. All Greek houses are designated as “University-Approved Housing,” meaning they fulfill the two-year on-campus living requirement and serve as an alternative to dorms. Students living in Greek houses enjoy their own meal programs, run by private chefs. Most Greek housing is also less expensive than university residence halls and offers amenities you won’t find in campus housing. Chapter houses are a point of pride for our community, with several ranking among the largest Greek houses in the nation.

Intramurals

Many Greek chapters at Missouri S&T form teams to compete in intramural sports (IMs), offering a fun and healthy way to stay active and engage in friendly competition. Chapters often create house teams. It’s not just about the games — it’s about making lasting memories, forging new connections, and learning the value of fair play and teamwork. IMs include popular team sports like soccer, ultimate frisbee and basketball, as well as Esports, pickleball, badminton and weightlifting.

Professional Development

Greek Life at Missouri S&T places a strong focus on professional development to help you prepare for life after graduation. Landing your first internship or co-op can be tough without real-world experience, but joining a chapter gives you early leadership opportunities to build your resume and stand out to recruiters. Chapters host workshops to prepare their students for career fairs — whether it's perfecting your elevator speech, polishing your resume, or mastering job interviews. Plus, many chapters connect members with Greek alumni who often recruit for internships and co-ops at their companies, giving you a valuable network to tap into.

Philanthropy

All Greek chapters support philanthropic organizations, with many supporting both local and national causes. Our Greek community raises thousands of dollars annually and contributes hundreds of volunteer hours. Greek chapters organize and participate in a variety of fundraising events, service projects and awareness campaigns — from charity runs and benefit dinners to hands-on community volunteering. For details on each chapter's designated philanthropy, see the Chapter Information pages at the end of this brochure.

HOW TO JOIN GREEK LIFE

For Greek chapters under the Interfraternity Council or the Greek Independent Council, recruitment is informal — each chapter recruits on its own schedule without a set process. The best way to start is to talk with members at events like A&R days, Miner Welcome Bash, or reach out on social media.

The Panhellenic Council holds a process called “Primary Recruitment,” which is more structured. This three-day event, held at the end of Opening Week, gives you the chance to meet all three Panhellenic sororities. To get involved, sign up for Primary Recruitment on the S&T Panhellenic Council's website (sites.mst.edu/panhellenic).

Most fraternities, sororities and councils have tables at S&T events such as A&R days, Miner Welcome Bash and open houses. This is the perfect opportunity to learn more about Greek Life at S&T, hear from our students themselves, and discover how you can get involved.

Find your place in Greek life

Nineteen of our campus's 25 fraternities and sororities have established chapter houses that serve as the heart of their communities. This map helps you see where these houses sit in relation to campus and the broader community.

The houses are organized by their respective governing councils. The color coding and letters on the map correspond to the designations that follow each organization's name in the directory. Start exploring to find where you belong in our Greek community.
